

Introductions All Around

First Name Last Name

September 4, 2024

Here is where I write my introduction. I have a lot to say, so I'll probably have multiple paragraphs. This sentence is on a new line in my .tex file, but as you'll see when you compile it, that won't make any difference.

This sentence is two lines later, so it does get a new paragraph.
New lines can also be created with the double slashes!

If I do both double slashes and skip a line, I get a bit more space.